

Stronger mileage standards mean greater American security.

President Obama, thank you for strengthening America's gas mileage standards. Every day, we send $1 billion overseas for oil. A dangerous amount of that money is funneled to terrorists and unfriendly states who attack our troops overseas and threaten our security at home.

Stronger mileage standards protect American prosperity.

Burning less gas in our cars keeps American dollars here at home, and out of the hands of our enemies. Thank you, President Obama, for standing up for American energy security by setting a strong 2025 CAFE standard of 54.5 miles per gallon.

Thank you, President Obama, for standing up for American strength and energy independence.
